

Advancement of Agril. Sciences and Technology an Interdisciplinary Society (ISASaT)

Advanced Agricultural Research and Technology Journal (AARJ)

The first issue of the Journal will be published in January, 2017

ISASaT Objectives:-

- To cultivate and promote Agricultural & Allied Sciences.
- To disseminate the knowledge of Agricultural Research & Technology to masses.
- To work in close association with organization with similar objectives.
- To develop technologies through research with respect to climate change.
- To publish documents and specific studies those intended for advancement of Agricultural Research and development.

Proposed International and National Editors

We have approached renowned researcher workers and scientists across the world in different countries for providing their services for evaluating and editing the research articles

Executive Committee

1. Dr. Tapas Bhattacharyya (President)
2. Dr. U. V Mahadkar (Vice-President)
3. Dr. N. B Gokhale (Secretary)
4. Dr. J M. Talathi (Treasurer)

Editorial Board

Dr. S.S Narkhede (Chief Editor)

Registration-

Registered under the Maharashtra Society act 1860/ 5698/ Ratna

Objectives:-

- To publish half yearly scientific journal this includes all the major disciplines of Agricultural and allied Sciences for the benefit of the scientists.
- To disseminate the recent knowledge and technologies to the end users through various publications.

Goal

This journal with a holistic approach will try to accommodate original scientific articles from all the disciplines like natural research management, plant sciences, forestry, horticulture, post-harvest management, fisheries, animal husbandry, agriculture engineering and technology, social sciences.